

NATIONAL DEFENSE PRESENT AND FUTURE

John Arquilla

7:30 PM, THURSDAY, 3/12/2020

NATIONAL DEFENSE FOR A BRAVE NEW WORLD

America's defense establishment needs to keep pace with technological change that has given rise to a range of new weaponry – hypersonic missiles to an arsenal of cyber weapons. Our armed forces remain organized around aircraft carriers, tanks and bombers – weapons of an earlier era. John Arquilla, Distinguished Professor and Chair in the Dept. of Defense Analysis at the Naval Postgraduate School, will discuss the challenges and the forward thinking approaches needed to address the spectrum of new directions for our national defense.
